

The ultimate secret to developing your street photography by Simon Ellingworth:

At this point, don't even think about photography or projects, simply complete the questionnaire and let's explore you, your values, likes and beliefs. I'd suggest you just jot down whatever comes to mind, but do it now before reading the rest of the article.

3 Things:

Make a list of at least 3 things for each category:

- 3 things you do in your spare time
- 3 places that you have access to that I don't (Could be as simple as a golf club, etc)
- 3 things that frustrate you about the world
- 3 things you're passionate about
- 3 places that you love, or that visually inspire you
- 3 things that make you laugh or amuse you
- 3 Social / political changes you have an opinion about
- 3 things that you'd like to change about the world
- 3 sectors of society that fascinate you
- 3 street aesthetics you like
- 3 of your own favorite street images
